

CALL FOR PARTICIPATION FOR THE 2nd INTERNATIONAL DAY OF NEW TALENTS OF ART 2016

Deadline: April 30, 2016

Open to: museums, collections, foundations, exhibition- and project spaces

The international day of new talents of art – the id.new talents – is a day, a growing network and a platform set up to promote young professional artists and the initiatives that support them. The id.new talents is meant to raise awareness and public attention for museums, collections, foundations, exhibition and project spaces which offer valuable support and presentation potential for young artists who have just finished their studies.

We are inviting arts initiatives operating anywhere in the world to participate and present a new talent of art locally on May 21, 2016.

Those individual local presentations as well as information on the institutions and their chosen artist will be communicated on www.id-newtalents.com. The participation is free of charge.

Institutions, non-commercial spaces and public collections can participate...

... by presenting at least one work of a new talent (a young professional artist who has graduated in the four previous years) or

... by presenting an early work of a today well-established artist (a work that has been produced in the "new talent" period within four years after graduation).

The chosen artist can be presented within a running exhibition or as a special event (i.e. special exhibition/ screening/ performance/ programme) on the occasion of id.new talents on May 21, 2016. The selection and presentation of the artist is by the institutions' own choice and authority.

For participation please fill in the application form that is available for download at www.id-newtalents.com. Please send it together with image files to application@id-newtalents.com.

This call is ongoing. The deadline for submission for the id.new talents 2016 is Saturday, April 30, 2016. For more information please visit www.id-newtalents.com
